LANDON VISITS ORLEANS

Sees Sights In America's Most Interesting City—To Fish in Florida.

Governor Alfred M. Landon, defeated Republican presidential candidate, while in New Orleans the early part of the week, did nothing more than the ordinary tourist.

He waved aside political questions and volunteered he would peek into Royal street antique shops, browse around the famous French Quarter and sample the city's noted cuisine. "I'm on the first vacation I've had in a long time," he said.

He said he and L. E. Phillips, oil operator of Bartlesville, Okla., his host on a fishing trip to Monticello, Fla., would go by automobile to Tallahassee, Fla., and then to Monticello.

On his arrival, photographers, yelled to him to talk to John E. Jackson, Republican national committee man for Louisiana.

"All right, I'll ask him why we lost Louisiana," the governor said. "Well, we beat Lemke," Jackson replied.

Landon, registering at the Roosevelt Hotel, made no comment on the public.

He traveled by train to New Orleans then thru Bay St. Louis to Florida by auto. He will return home the same way.

With 81.1 per cent results from a 49.8 per cent effort, the Five Thousand Club is comfortably beyond the 4,000 mark," Frank E. Skillton, General Chairman of the Club, told messengers to the Mississippi Baptist State Convention at Natchez last week. 496 Chairmen and workers have each secured from one to six club memberships. 2700 women of the Women's Missionary Union have joined. The women agreed to produce 2,500 of the 5,000. Memberships of the Baptist men total 1,627. There are 100 unallocated memberships. "Only 29 workers have resigned," Skillton stated, "and I am confident Mississippi Baptists can count on those who are striking to finish the job in the next two or three weeks."

Of the original $3,000,000 investment in their colleges, Mississippi Baptists have paid off all but 17 per cent. The Five Thousand Club will pay the remaining seventeen per cent, 81.1 per cent of which has already been assured.

One of the outstanding charitable organizations of our city is St. Margaret's Daughters, dispensing food, clothes and medicine and disbursing money in cases of extreme need and emergency. Yet the resources of the Daughters is very limited and it is with difficulty they are able to pursue their work.

In order to raise funds for the immediate present this small band of nobly-inspired women are giving a benefit card party at The Answer, Union street, Thursday, December 17, at 2 o'clock afternoon. Mrs. E. J. Lacoste, famous for her fruit cake, will bake many as the Daughters wish and there will be one at each table.

In addition to this there will be an entrance award and in every way the ladies are endeavoring not only to raise a goodly sum of cash but to make the afternoon one of much entertainment and worthy of attending.

St. Margaret's daughters are non-sectarian in their work, they know neither creed, condition nor color. This small group of women are banded together and are working for "sweet charity's sake." Remember this benefit, please.

United States Will Spend Four Billions For Christmas

AMERICANS will spend $4,000,000,000 this Christmas season on gifts, apparel, jewelry, and food, according to predictions of leading retail agencies.

The total may even exceed that figure to top the outpouring of funds spent in 1929, the record year. The impetus comes from bigger payrolls, bonuses, extra and special dividends, and Christmas club funds. The latter alone total $355,000,000. Wage increases, bonuses, and dividends amount to around a billion dollars for the season.

COUNTY AGENT JOHN BOZEMAN GIVES RECIPE FOR AILING LIVESTOCK

Timely Remedy For Controlling Intestinal Parasites—Dosage Recommended.

County Agent, J. A. Bozeman, calls attention of the livestock owners an important treatment for controlling stomach worms in cattle. Now is the time that the stomach worm treatment should be started, says Mr. Bozeman. This treatment should be repeated from 2 to 3 times at 14 and 18 day intervals, fall and spring. Treated animals should be turned on cultivated fields or at least kept off of regular pasture or range and out of pond water supply for three days or longer, just following each treatment.

The treatment follows:

Make a solution of Copper Sulfate (Blue Stone) by dissolving one ounce of clear crystals of Copper Sulfate (finely pulverized) to each 3 quarts of water. Glass or earth container should be used for the solution. Cattle should be kept away from feed and water 10 to 12 hours (over night), drenched in morning and kept from feed and water 4 to 5 hours after drenching. Make only enough of solution for one drenching at a time. The following dosage is recommended:

Calves 3 to 8 months old, give 1/2 coca cola bottle full.

Calves 9 to 14 months old, give 1 1/2 coca cola bottle full.

Yearlings 15 to 24 months old, give 1 1/2 coca cola bottles full.

Cows 2 years old and over, give 2 coca cola bottles full.

If a farmer wishes to use the Copper Sulfate treatment for intestinal parasites, you can do so by soaking one ounce of snuff to each of the 3 quarts of water, used in the blue stone solution, over night (or use "Commercial Nicotine Sulfate"). Mix the two in the morning before drenching animals.

These treatments are highly recommended by the Agricultural Extension Service of the State, and your County Agent, J. A. Bozeman, urges the cattle owners to use this treatment especially with the calves and young animals.

LOCAL SHERIFF'S OFFICE CAPTURES MARK OLIVER AT BAY ST. LOUIS HOME

Was Hiding Under Kitchen Table With 'False Bottom'—Immediately Handcuffed and Taken to Gulfport To Await Arrival of Penitentiary Sergeant.

Mark Oliver, fugitive from justice was captured at his home in Washington street at 1:05 Wednesday afternoon, covered with two revolvers, allowed to change clothes while handcuffed and taken at once to Gulfport with every precaution possible.

Sheriff Claud Monti and his force of deputies have not seen Oliver since the night he escaped, but thru well organized forces and in touch with general authorities they went forth to his residence in quest of their man.

Assisting Sheriff Claud Monti and Deputy Sheriff F. J. Bopp, with Deputy Morris Wheat, who made the direct find and clamped the handcuffs on Oliver, were Deputy Alaine Saucier of Hancock county and Deputy Sheriffs John Payne, and C. J. Reichert, the latter two from Harrison county. The two officers from Gulfport immediately took Oliver to the Harrison county jail where he will await the arrival of a prison traveling sergeant who will come for him.

Oliver was found under a kitchen table, with a false bottom, the top covered with oilcloth hanging well over the sides. The officers making the arrest demanded that he come forth, which he did, pleading "Don't shoot" with two pistols pointed at him. Part of the searching party first entered the house, let go a quantity of tear gas in the garret of the house. This proved of no avail and a group of officers named entered the house, while others stood on the outside ready to capture in the attempt to escape. The tear gas was supplied by Harrison county, two deputy sheriffs bringing the supply.

At the sheriff's office it was learned that Oliver had been hiding in his house at least two days. It appears he had traveled to Picayune from some unrevealed point and a car from Bay St. Louis, it is alleged, met him.

Oliver, it will be remembered was sentenced to serve five years for participating in the kidnaping of Jos. R. Schaff and robbing his safe at the point of a revolver. Oliver and others, charged with the crime, made good their escape.

There were five men in all. Mark Oliver, Forrest Favre, Geo. Lambly, Sam Montalbano and James V. Glynn, all of New Orleans excepting Favre and Oliver, the latter constable Beat 5 at the time of Hancock county, and a former city chief of police.

Glynn and Montalbano plead guilty and were sentenced to 3 years. Oliver plead not guilty and after a hard fight was given seven years.

But Monday following on plea of his attorney, Former Lt.-Gov. Bidwell Adam, Judge W. A. White reduced his sentence to five years.

Lambly and Favre turned State's evidence and their cases were finally passed to files and were subsequently released.

After he had been sentenced, seeking a more substantial jail building, Oliver was removed from the local jail to the Harrison county jail at Gulfport. It was from there he escaped on the night of Saturday, October 3, after combatting with the aged jail keeper at that hour. Later he surrendered in Bay St. Louis, driving from his home in an automobile, accompanied by his family and others, to the home of the county attorney. It was while the group and himself were awaiting the arrival of an authorized and armed officer to make the arrest, he hastily retreated out into the darkness of the night and made his escape.

Since then he has not been heard from nor seen until Wednesday afternoon when the forces of the local sheriff's office made the raid on his home and got their man.

To the sheriff's office and local attaches go the credit of the capture. The men have never ceased working on the case since the night of the unexpected get-away at a time the prisoner had surrendered. They labored well and successfully and their apprehension of Oliver Wednesday well attests to

PEACE AND GOODWILL ON EARTH.

WITH the approach of Christmas many thoughts akin to the spirit of the time arise. Memories as well appear and with reminiscence there is always an indefinable tinge of sorrow. Strange as it may appear.

This season promises to be an unusual one in many ways—from the various angles we celebrate the day and days preceding and that follow as well.

From every source indications are this is going to be a bright and happy Christmas for the reason unemployed last year are back to work, factories and other places giving employment have resumed full operations and in many instances new business endeavors have added to the busy field of making a living.

Adding more than this mere fact is the spirit born of such condition. Happy is the right-thinking man and woman who has employment; who is able to do, to give and enjoy the supreme satisfaction that emanates therefrom.

We find a different world today from that of last year at this particular period. The country has endorsed the federal plan of government and of doing, consequently it must be the successful way. Business has improved to that extent there has been no failures, no financial disasters. Banks are in better condition than ever and no one today hears of a bank liquidation. Much happiness is born of financial security.

We are at peace with the world. This is the great season of Peace and Good Will and finds this country is living that way. It will be a joyous season in many senses and there will be full and just reason to observe in the religious way and to celebrate in the manner we have by long-time custom to celebrate.

This section has much to look forward to and the Christmas season is going to be a significant one.

HISTORY HANCOCK COUNTY.

WHEN federal workers will have finished collecting and compiling data of the various counties of this section, along with other places of the country there will be a distinct revelation.

The compilation printed and presented in five huge volumes, under name of The Guide, will well prove its weight in the proverbial metal. For here are preserved for posterity a local history that does not appear in text books. An assembly of things and incidents that has failed, so far, of the printed word. Pioneers may tell of these things worthy of record, but they, like all mortals and things likewise, die and pass away. Permanency means for value. And particularly in this instance.

For many months workers for Hancock county, located in Bay St. Louis City Hall, have been collecting and compiling a wealth of data that will go to make a complete history. There is no printed history of Hancock county and its people. In this particular work there will appear names of folk who have taken prominent place in the life and doings of the county. There are many local historical facts little known and occasionally vaguely referred to as "I heard," or "They say," "My grandfather" or "grandmother remembered," and etc. But in this work, compiled under auspices of federal government, there will be a narration of the many things we and our children will want to know.

Miss May H. Edwards and her corps of faithful workers have labored diligently and successfully. They have seemingly allowed nothing to remain undone and the result will make for a history of Hancock of more than ordinary interest and value.

THE ONE BIG CHURCH IDEA.

AN idea that seems to have played in the minds of religious leaders for centuries revolves around the reunion of all the Christian churches into one, great, big church.

It is, apparently, taken for granted that if we can get all Christians into one church we will really have Christianity.

We presume to doubt it. The only universal church that will ever do this world, or any other, any good is the church that grows in the hearts of men and women. Forms, ceremonies and organizations are insignificant unless they develop Christianity in the character and lives of people.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND PEACE.

THE President has embarked for South America in the interest of peace. Few have done more than he to promote peace at home. His efforts abroad should be equally fruitful. Even the Republicans cannot deny that since election a great calm has settled over the land. It arose not merely out of the circumstance that the G. O. P. was too badly beaten to carry on longer, but out of the more important fact that the country desired what was best for its own welfare and got just what it wanted.

This is the time of the year for you to shop early.

Today will never come again so you might as well use it wisely.

A DOUBLE CROP FOR SOUTH MISSISSIPPI.

SOUTH Mississippi is building for the future. A double crop for tomorrow.

We have heard during the past few years considerable discussion for diversified farming, especially since the one crop of cotton has proven otherwise but dependable since prices fluctuate each season to extremely low figures. Plant less cotton was the injunction. This however, proved only in theory. Then came, 'diversify' crops. But in the past years of stress and failure of price, crops even though diversified amounted to little. For the reason cotton is staple and other crop far from its kind.

This section long ago turned to planting the pecan. There seemed no limit to pecan acreage and the demand did not lessen. But it is well known the pecan does not produce regularly. One season there is an abundance. Then the season following is far from adequate to meet even an ordinary supply. There is no room here to dwell on the why of the short and full crop, but the fact is well known it is far from a dependable crop even though a paying one.

South Mississippi is the home of the pecan. No where does the tree thrive and produce better. But since it is not so dependable a crop we are blessed with a new opening for profit from millions of idle acres. The tung tree, a product of Japan, does well in this section.

It will not freeze. It is best adapted to our sandy soil. The tree flourishes as well as in the orient and the product is as ample and of quality as its progenitors in Japan. Only planted within the last few years, the trees are beginning to now bear in commercial quantity and already crushing plants for the extraction of oil are established and soon we will have a double crop—the pecan and tung. If one should fail there will be the other. If both flourish, well—so much the better. Wise is the land owner who has planted the tung tree as well as the pecan.

BANKS AND CHRISTMAS SAVINGS.

HUNDREDS of Christmas savings depositors received their checks Thanksgiving morning. It was a reward for thrift and systemized savings, money accumulated by consistent deposits that probably otherwise would not have been to the credit for whom each check was destined and finally delivered.

It is no secret that Christmas accounts do not pay banks sufficiently for the enormous amount of handling, for affecting each week the formality of receiving and credit the small deposit, subsequently carrying this credit to other records, to say nothing of providing for a duplicate deposit book or card, etc. And the interest the bank pays the depositor to teach him how to save and do the work for him week after week adds to the cost.

But the banks are willing to be of service to the public and bear the cost. For it must be remembered that after all the bank pays you to save plus free service.

However, even though it does not pay in dollars and cents, the bank is satisfied to give this service. Teaching how to save by small weekly stipends is a valuable and lasting lesson that not only serves to an ennobling purpose for the present but possibly a lesson that will be handed down to generation.

We must command the Hancock County Bank and Merchants Bank & Trust Company of Bay St. Louis for their generous service rendered the public. We hope the banks will reap a greater reward in future by enrolling a larger number than usually for if it is going to pay any it can be only by volume.

Such Christmas savings accounts for 1937 are now in process of enrollment. It might be well for the reader to register a savings at once. It is an easy and effective way of accumulating money that otherwise would probably be dispensed with not the slightest gain or reward.

PROMISCUOUS SHOOTING OF DOGS.

AT a public mass meeting in Gulfport the other day city authorities were denounced for the ruthless killing of dogs and cats found at large. The charges were to the effect either dog or cat was shot without notice and that no regard was paid to whether or not the dog carried a tag certificate of inoculation.

At first it was demanded dogs had to be inoculated; that a tag to that effect certifying the canine had been properly inoculated for the prevention of rabies was all that would be necessary. However, the requirement goes further that Fido must now be muzzled with a contraption of steel, in addition to tag.

It appears dog and cat owners are up in arms. The first requirement was reasonable and made for sane safety, but that now it is not the dogs but someone else has gone mad; that it appears to be an imposition on the owner to say nothing of expense; something akin to cruelty to animals.

Gulfportians, and others will agree, some little fellow with a big gun, wearing a tin badge of marshal or deputy is going to prove himself not only a menace, drunk with authority, but an agency of death-dealing.

When a people of a community rise in public indignation meeting at seemingly unwarranted proceedings there must be something to be said in behalf of the dumb animals.

AN EASY WAY TO FIGHT DISEASE.

THE sale of Christmas Seals will continue in Bay St. Louis for several weeks, during which time it is hoped that the public will liberally purchase the stamps that make possible a sustained warfare against the dread scourge, tuberculosis.

Those who are able will buy bonds, the proceeds of which will be used for the same purpose. Most of the money raised, we are advised, will be used in the communities where it is contributed.

There is no use for us to go into statistics about tuberculosis. Every reader knows about the disease and the importance of battling against its spread. Surely, there is no easier way than to buy seals and bonds.

WHAT THE PRESS IS SAYING OF MEN AND MATTERS IN EDITORIAL EXPRESSION

SHAKING HANDS WITH THE DEVIL.

(Tupelo Daily News)

WE do not care to involve ourselves in a religious dispute.

Fact is, we do not intend to. However, we believe that any organization which proposes that the state legislature repeal the beer laws, is just not fully acquainted or posted in the matter and what would be the results should the statute be repealed?

If the promoters of such an idea would square off with themselves and recall the days before beer was legalized, they would be so eager to see this law sidetracked.

We can all remember the brew bootlegger, and his filthy mush.

Even our boys and girls were drinking that slop that was tearing the very lining from their stomachs.

Beer was legalized in Mississippi and the homebrew bootlegger took his exit.

DOGS AND CATS.

(Fred Sullens in Jackson News)

DOWN at Gulfport the municipal commission enacted an ordinance decreeing that dogs and cats must not run at large without muzzles—an other of those rabies scares. The dog-catcher of Gulfport—he's also the cat-catcher—ran amuck with his gun and killed 22 cats.

He was fortified in so doing by a city ordinance not worth the paper on which it was written.

Cats and dogs have an inherent right to roam at large, in spite of man-made laws.

INTERESTING NEWS ITEMS OF THE MOVIES AND FILM FOLK IN HOLLYWOOD

IN his next picture, "Great Guy," James Cagney may be featured as star co-producer, co-director, co-author. The success or failure of this film will probably determine Cagney's future.

After announcing their engagement, Pinky Tomlin, Oklahoma singing actor, and Toby Wing, blonde film player, also announced that they would make public appearances in the East this winter and would be married upon their return to Hollywood in the spring.

During the production of "Captains Courageous," Freddie Bartholomew lost his balance while climbing in the rigging and fell on Spencer Tracy, producing a huge bump on Tracy's head.

Because of production delays, Marlene Dietrich has already made $200,000 on her new British picture "Champagne Waltz," excellent, they have bought "To Have and To Hold" for her. It is a swashbuckling musical to be produced next spring.

Things aren't so funny with the film comedians these days, it seems. Ned Sparks' wife is suing for divorce; Star Laurel's wife is demanding $1,000 a month alimony; and Buster Keaton is fighting for custody of his two children from his divorced wife, Natalie Talmadge.

Lenore Bushman, daughter of Francis X. Bushman, a matinee idol of years gone by, has another claim on him. She was the first girl to kiss Clark Gable before the cameras. It all happened four years ago before Gable rose to film fame. Miss Bushman, dropped for a while, has recently been signed anew.

Sonja Henie, Norwegian skating queen, wants to become an American citizen. As soon as she finishes her first picture, she plans to go to Mexico and re-enter the United States under that country's immigration quota from her country. Then she will take out citizenship papers.

Miriam Hopkins likes to work in Hollywood but says, "It's no place to live." She has established her home in New York and will remain in the film capital only while working, she says.

Kay Francis is superstitious. She considers sixty-six her lucky number.

Believing he was being miscast, George Raft refused roles in four productions and finally abrogated his contract with Paramount Studios by mutual consent. As a free agent, he has no plans, he says.

Although Marguerite Churchill had never fired a rifle before her marriage with George O'Brien, she now can beat him at target practice.

Taking a dare, Richard Palmer Smart, wealthy young Honolulu resident, took a screen test and as a result was offered a part in the film sequel to "All Quiet on the Western Front."

STOKOWSKI PLAYS
'SWING' MUSIC IN RADIO COMEDY

"The Big Broadcast of 1937"
At A. & G. Theater,
Sunday - Monday.

One of the best known orchestras of the airwaves, led by internationally famous Leopold Stokowski, and the leading exponents of "swing" music, led by Benny Goodman, uncrowned king of swing, realms apart as far as tastes goes, meet on the fraction of an inch that forms a sound track in "The Big Broadcast of 1937," the all-air and screen spectacle at the A. & G. Theater, Sunday and Monday.

This latest edition of Paramount's annual tribute to the air waves, which also includes such radio headliners as George Burns and Gracie Allen, Bob "Bazooka" Burns, Martha Raye, and many others, affords radio fans an opportunity at last to see which it is, "sweet" or "swing" which affords them the highest possible enjoyment in music.

It's not a clash between high brow and low brow. Symphonic music is not high brow, we have it on the authority of Stokowski himself, and "swing" according to a recent newspaper interview with Jascha Heifetz, noted violin virtuoso, is not low brow but a manifestation of a really high type of popular music which, while it may make its victims want to dance like nobody's business, is still art.

Stokowski, who was acclaimed in recent radio polls as one of the most popular conductors of symphony music by America, doesn't have anything derogatory to say about swing. If you like it, he says, you like it. If you don't, he doesn't. But he has dedicated his time toward bringing the so-called art music to the average man and woman and showing them how much real pleasure there is to be found in it.

Benny Goodman, a master musician himself, and radio's high priest of "swing," thinks the same way. "Swing," he holds, is one thing, and "sweet" another. It is up to the individual to decide which he likes best. That's one of the reasons, he says, he was so glad to get the musical assignment in "The Big Broadcast of 1937." Fan letters are one way of telling how popular you are, he says. But most radio fans don't know whether they like "sweet" or not because they don't bother to tune it in. "Big Broadcast," however, serves up both forms on a silver platter, lavishly garnished with beautiful girls, delightful comedy, exquisite dancing and great gaiety and mirth throughout. It will be important, he feels to hear what fans have to say to him in letters after this performance.

Social Security Act a new, powerful weapon against crime.

ROTARY THANKSGIVING CELEBRATION, CITY OVER HANCOCK LINE

State Bureau Speakers Advertising Commission Sends Bay St. Louis Guest.

Governor Hugh White proclaiming from the Sunday previous to last Friday, midnight, Thanksgiving Week Picayune Rotary Club, under the provisions of such proclamation, held its regular weekly meeting last Friday noon as the Special Thanksgiving celebration. It was one of the 1135 civic Clubs that gave a special Thanksgiving program for the week.

The meeting was one well attended, several members from out of town, other guests from as far as Philadelphia, present, rendered the affair one well worthy. A centerpiece of the Long U-shaped table was typical of the season. Here was a large pumpkin, that had been scooped from a wide-circled top and filled with a variety of fruit, emblematical of plenty and proving highly decorative.

Here were leading lights and successful business and professional men in assembly, all banded in the weekly luncheon assembly to work not only for good fellowship but for a better point of contact and better understanding and that the community named Picayune, a name that is well known for all that the very best in civic endeavor and upbuilding of that section, might better go forward. An objective that is well realized.

It was a pleasure for this writer to meet so many splendid citizens, men who it would seem have dedicated their lives for mutual understanding and consolidated effort for civic betterment. Men who count for much in the community and county, men who do things and give Picayune a long line of accomplishment for progress and general moral uplift as well.

The guest speaker for the day, assigned by the bureau of speakers from the Mississippi Advertising Commission, created by the last session of the Legislature, was from Bay St. Louis and a member of the local Rotary Club. Prince received, this program-guest itemized the many industrial enterprises for which the State should be thankful, aside from the abundance of many spiritual and moral blessings. He said there was so much to be thankful for that one day only set aside was not sufficient. It was for that reason the Governor had proclaimed a Week of Thanksgiving and that the State over would find time for thanksgiving for so much.

The twenty-three industries that had come to Mississippi during the past few months were either finished or in the building, one of the latter in Picayune (a garment factory) and the other within local range at Gulfport. The speaker dwelt in the main of the abundance of resources for which Mississippians are thankful. That we had not been visited by any of the warring elements that had invaded other sections of the country, such as dust storms, drouths, floods and other major catastrophe. A talk of twenty minutes or more that brought to a sense of realization of the blessing and gifts that had come and of the prospects for the future that is liberal in abundance and rich in reward. A number of diversified thoughts in preface and towards the end concluded the address and Thanksgiving observance for which the Governor had asked.

Picayune can truly boast of not only a splendid citizenry, but a community where co-operation and endeavor go hand in hand and big things are accomplished. A spirit that can only emanate from fine people exists and it is no wonder it is one of the fastest-growing towns in the State.

The writer wishes to acknowledge with appreciation and lasting remembrance the cordial and hospitable manner in which he was received and also for the substantial manner in which this reception was backed.

—A. G. Favre, Jr., was winner of the ticket of admission to the annual Sugarbowl Classic, selling the most number of tickets to the Flea and Fly football game at St. Stanislaus College Thanksgiving night. Young Favre, not able to go himself to the New Year event, at New Orleans, graciously returned the ticket, which calls for a seat at the 50-yard line, and it will be disposed of in a manner that will raise quite a neat sum for the athletic fund.

—Prof. Horace A. Russ, instructor of Art Warren Easton High School, New Orleans, has a card in this issue of the Echo to which we call special attention. He instructs classes at Room No. 35 Hotel Weston, Bay St. Louis, every Saturday morning from 9:30 to 12 o'clock. There are several classes for beginners, advanced courses for freehand and mechanical drawing, painting, design and commercial art. Here is an unusual opportunity for your boy or girl inclined to this cultural and commercial pursuit.

—Rev. A. J. Boyles, former pastor Methodist Church at Carthage, Miss., accompanied by his family, reached here Tuesday and is domiciled at the Parsonage. Rev. Boyles succeeds Rev. J. E. Gray, pastor here the past four years and transferred to Port Gibson. Mr. Boyles was a special guest of the Rotary Club Wednesday at Hotel Weston and given a formal introduction. It is evident he is going to become an active member of the community and expressed his desire to be affiliated with every endeavor for the progress and material growth of the city. He is fond of hunting, fishing and all out-door pastimes and between times will find plenty to engross his attention in the great outdoors of this section.

As per annual custom of adding to the Christmas season and as contribution to making people happier, Joseph R. Scharff, whose grocery and market is located corner Main and Touline streets, announces an unusual list of gifts to customers this season.

Three turkeys, five baskets of groceries, five chrome-plated serving trays, teapots, coffee pot and other given away. This contest will be useful and valuable articles will begin this Friday morning and continue on to the holidays. Every purchaser of twenty-five cents worth of merchandise will receive a ticket enabling the holder to become eligible to procure one of these acceptable gifts, particular at this Christmas season.

An added feature at Scharff's Store is that on each Friday until Christmas, beginning December 11, two baskets of groceries will be given away free at 4 o'clock afternoon. Visit Scharff's Quality Food Store and learn all about these things given away for the pre-holiday season.

Jones—Do you hear very often from that old rich aunt of yours?

Smith—Yes, at each New Year's she sends us a postal card inscribed, "Children, I'm still living."
